Flobots and The Fray Present
The Bring it on Bowling Ball
Friday, September 4, 2009, 6-11 pm
Lucky Strike Belmar

JULY 28, 2009 -- Homegrown bands Flobots and The Fray are thrilled to announce the first annual Bring it on Bowling Ball, coming to Lucky Strike Lanes in Belmar on Friday, September 4. No ordinary fundraiser, this evening of fun, food, cocktails and gaming will be topped by a no-holds barred celebrity bowl-off to determine who really rules the lanes in D-Town.

Proceeds benefit Flobots.org, a non-profit organization that works to create positive change by harnessing the power of music and those who love it. Inspired by the energy and enthusiasm of Flobots fans, Flobots.org develops community engagement among thousands of young people across the country: From leading voter registration drives to planning community gardening and school art programs, Flobots.org equips young people to be leaders, builders and changemakers.

ABOUT FLOBOTS.ORG

For the Denver-based Flobots, activism and art have always been intertwined. In 2008, Flobots took its activism to a national stage by forming a non-profit organization.

Major programs:

Live from DCH! Music Therapy Program at Denver Children's Home, currently expanding to serve young people across Denver

Fight With Tools Street Team Program, building communities of socially engaged music fans

Flobots.org Community Space, home to programs and performances for youth and community

Last year, Flobots.org's founding members were awarded the Circles of Change award from Seeking Common Ground. In March, Flobots.org received the Cesar Chavez Leadership Award. Flobots.org has been featured at numerous conferences on social justice, leadership and sustainable living.
